Publishing: Opening the Editor's Black Box – Tips for Successful Submissions and Insights into the Peer-Review Process

Presentation and Q&A

Nathalie Weickgenannt, Editor-in-Chief of Angewandte Chemie, Wiley-VCH

Prisca Henheik, Editor-in-Chief of Clean, Wiley-VCH

Abstract

Would you like to learn more about how scientific journals work in detail and how you should present your science to get published? Meet two Editors-in-Chief who will open the editor's black box and talk about:

- What editors do
- Tips for successful submissions
- The publishing and peer-review process
- Effective science writing, tips on language and manuscript structure
- Publication ethics

After the talk there will be time for your questions.

Speakers

Nathalie Weickgenannt studied chemistry at the University of Oxford and completed her PhD at the University of Münster under the supervision of Frank Glorius. She joined Wiley-VCH as an editor for Angewandte Chemie in 2013 and was promoted to Editor-in-Chief of the journal in 2024.

Prisca Henheik studied chemistry in Göttingen and completed her PhD at the Heidelberg University (Cell Biology), then worked at the Biochemistry Department in Heidelberg. She joined Wiley in 2001 and works as Editor-in-Chief for CLEAN – Soil, Air, Water (2015-2025) and the European Journal of Lipid Science & Technology (since 2019). Additionally, she worked as an Editor for several journals from the Advanced-Materials-group (Advanced Materials, Advanced Functional Materials, Advanced Sustainable Systems, Advanced Science).
